The City of Kingston hosted a ground breaking for their second solar farm on October 27, 2014, at 10:00 a.m.. This will be a 200 kW solar farm and will be comprised of 800 solar panels that will collect from the sunlight and convert into electricity—enough to off-set the power needs of the Kingston Water Plant. The system will generate between 4,000/5,000 a month in revenue from TVA which goes into the city and over the course of 20 years the city will see one million dollars in energy savings. It is a great example of a partnership between the public and private sectors.

Gov. Bill Haslam visits the Ground Breaking Ceremony at Gertrude Porter Park on October 29th.
